Technical Review Meeting – fish consumption rates

The Department of Ecology is holding the second technical review meeting to discuss technical analyses performed to consider fish consumption rate information.

The FCR technical review meeting #2 will be held November 27, 2012, from 9 am until noon at the Port of Seattle Headquarters, 2711 Alaska Way, Seattle, in room 3CC05. The first meeting was held November 5, 2012, at the EPA offices in Seattle. Meetings are open to the public. Space is limited; if you are interested in attending, please contact Martha Hankins at (360) 407-6864.

A summary of the first meeting and a draft agenda for the second meeting is available on the Ecology website: <http://www.ecy.wa.gov/programs/tcp/regs/fish/2012/Tech-Review-Meetings/Tech-Mtgs.html>

Ecology is not planning at this time to incorporate a default fish consumption rate into the Sediment Management Standards. Sediment cleanup will continue to be evaluated on a site specific basis. The purpose of this meeting is to discuss technical details of the statistical methodology in Ecology's fish consumption rate technical support document. This document is part of the information that Ecology will consider in cleanup decisions and during the process of adopting surface water quality standards.
